THE OSPREY, an all around military plane, has proved itself one of the best of the export fighters. Shipped principally to South American countries it does yeoman's duty there as a combination pursuit, attack and bomber. The high speed of 174 m.p.h. and the climb of 1620 ft. per min. insures the purchasing government of capable accomplishment of a wide range of missions.

Coupled with its trustworthy performance is its ever present ruggedness. The export fighter must be equally adept at zooming out of rough or tiny fields, lugging a load of eggs over scraggy peaks or at tearin over jungle tree tops through a rain of missiles to strafe a tenacious foe.
